Programme Outline

In recent years students’ interest in the phenomenon of globalisation in the context of development, human security, global economic transformation, poverty, and risk management has increased at all levels of study. A new programme setting out to explore concepts, approaches and methods from an inter-disciplinary perspective will have significant appeal and offer a rich and stimulating basis for postgraduate study. The Schools of Geography and Politics and International Relations contain leading international scholars in the field of globalisation and development, ensuring that students will study programme informed by some of the important research and writing.

The programme will introduce students to the theory, practice and relationship between globalisation and development. Through its core modules students will explore different approaches to understanding globalisation, and specifically where the questions of North-South issues and of development both influence and problematise these approaches. This will be done through extensive examination of a number of themes and issues in the core courses, including theories of globalisation, development theory, the shift from Bretton Woods to neo-liberalism, international capital flows and global commodity chains, the historical geography of global capitalism, poverty and inequality, spaces of uneven development, US hegemony and the rise of China, the global economic crisis, the environment, democratisation and political transition, spaces of resistance, and migration and global uneven development.

What Are the Entry Requirements?

As they appear in the Handbook/College prospectus. Normally at least an upper second class undergraduate degree or equivalent experience. IELTS 7.0 is required for non-native speakers of English.

How Do We Listen and Act on Your Feedback?

The Staff-Student Liaison Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between schools/institutes and its students. The committee consists of student representatives from each year in the school/institute together with appropriate representation from staff within the school/institute. It is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. Staff-Student Liaison Committees meet regularly throughout the year.

Each school/institute operates a Learning and Teaching Committee, or equivalent, which advises the School/Institute Director of Taught Programmes on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at school level including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies and reviewing all proposals for module and programme approval and amendment before submission to Taught Programmes Board. Student views are incorporated in the committee’s work in a number of ways, such as through student membership, or consideration of student surveys.

All schools/institutes operate an Annual Programme Review of their taught undergraduate and postgraduate provision. APR is a continuous process of reflection and action planning which is owned by those responsible for programme delivery; the main document of reference for this process is the Taught Programmes Action Plan (TPAP) which is the summary of the Programme Title: MA Globalisation and Development

School/institute’s work throughout the year to monitor academic standards and to improve the student experience. Students’ views are considered in this process through analysis of the NSS and module evaluations.

Academic Support

Students receive academic support via regular meetings with their advisor and via the programme director, module lecturers and attendance at research-related events in both Schools.

Programme-specific Rules and Facts

None

Specific Support for Disabled Students

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:
- Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
- Applying for funding through the Disabled Students’ Allowance (DSA)
- Arranging DSA assessments of need
- Special arrangements in examinations
- Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
- Specialist one-to-one “study skills” tuition
- Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
- Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
- Mentoring support for students with mental health issues and conditions on the autistic spectrum.

Links With Employers, Placement Opportunities and Transferable Skills

The programme provides a deep understanding of key processes of globalisation and development as well as developing a range of advanced analytical and research skills. This knowledge and experience will have transferable value in the labour market. Graduates would be especially well equipped to pursue careers in the field of development practice (non-governmental organisations, bilateral and multilateral development agencies) as well as those relating to global and local development issues in the UK and beyond. It is also envisaged that the research experience in the programme would provide a suitable basis for undertaking PhD research and, therefore, as a stepping stone to an academic career.

Graduate skills and qualities
In terms of transferable knowledge and skills, an MA Globalisation and Development graduate will:
- have a detailed, interdisciplinary knowledge of the concept of globalisation and its implications for development, transnational power, and uneven development
- be familiar with how globalisation and development operate over a range of geographical scales and locations at a practical and policy level
- be able to work with advanced theoretical ideas relating to globalisation and development
- have an advanced level understanding of the institutions of global and local governance

Queen Mary University of London
Programme Title: MA Globalisation and Development
