Programme Outline

This broad programme degree is for students who want to experience an extensive range of historical subjects and have the maximum flexibility of choice. In the first year students will gain a broad understanding of the shape of the history of Britain and Europe from 1100AD to the present day. Students will then have the opportunity to explore the medieval, early modern and modern periods, perhaps covering subjects as diverse as Anglo-Saxon England and the Kennedy presidency. The modular system allows students great freedom to shape their own studies, either specialising or retaining a broad focus. Students will be able to choose from political, cultural, religious, social and economic themes drawn from the School's strength in British, European, Middle-Eastern and American history.

Aims of the Programme

The programme V101 History as delivered by the School of History at Queen Mary, University of London aims:

- provide students with a thorough grounding in key aspects of at least two of three broad historical periods: Medieval, Early Modern and Modern/Contemporary;

How Will You Learn?

The programme is taught in accordance with the School’s Teaching, Learning and Assessment Strategy. The broad aims of this strategy are:

- to foster a sense of community amongst students and staff in the pursuit of teaching and learning history;
- to promote the relationship between staff research, teaching and student learning;
- to provide a flexible curriculum, supported by the intercollegiate system of the University of London which maximizes students' choice;
- to expose students to a diverse set of approaches to the study of history and to a number of specialisms including interdisciplinary collaboration;
- to encourage students to take responsibility for their own learning and progress and to develop qualities of self-discipline and self-direction;
- to inspire intellectual independence in students;
- to employ a variety of assessment methods and emphasize progression;
- to prepare graduates for training and/or employment, or further academic study, through the acquisition of transferable skills;

Teaching takes a number of forms:

- Lectures
- Seminars
- Field Trips
- Individual supervision of projects and dissertations
- Individual feedback on written work including examinations

Learning is supported by:

- Coherently designed and effectively delivered modules
- Detailed bibliographies, providing guided reading for each module
- The provision of key materials, in libraries, in specified books or module packs
- Appropriate assessment exercises with each module
- Encouraging active participation by students in seminar discussions
- Encouraging students to reflect on historical methods through dedicated modules
- Review of individual student progress in conjunction with advisers

How Will You Be Assessed?

How is the Programme Structured?

Year 1
Students select modules with a cumulative value of 120 credits from a range of thematic and skills based modules at level 4 (plus a non-assessed module 'History in Practice') with the guidance of their personal advisor in the School.

Level 4:
A. Skills and 'reflective' module: 15 credits
HST4602 History in Practice (15 cr)

B. Outline modules: 90 credits
Students take the following indicative range of compulsory modules:
HST4308 Unravelling Britain: 1800 to present (30 cr)
HST4309 Europe in a Global Context: 1800 to the present (30 cr)
and at least Two of:
HST4310 Building the American Nation (15 cr)
HST4107 Europe 1000-1500: The Middle Ages and their legacy (15 cr)
HST4102 From Reformation to Revolution: Europe 1500-1800 (15 cr)

C. Thematic options: 15 credits
One of:
HST4301 Critical Approaches to Film: Alfred Hitchcock (15 cr)
HST4601 Foundations of Modern Thought: introduction to intellectual history (15 cr)
HST4106 History of the Medieval Islamic World: 600 - 1500 (15 cr)
HST4102 The Medieval World; Structures and Mentalities (15 cr)

D. Alternatives
In certain circumstances students may take up to 30 credits from another School in place of one 15 - credit B option and one 15 credit C option. In those circumstances, students must make sure that they are still taking at least one medieval/early modern module.

In order to progress from year one to year two, students must take modules to the value of 120 credits and pass modules to the value of 90 credits.

Year 2
Students take modules with a cumulative value of 120 credits, with a minimum of 90 credits at level 5 in History, with the guidance of their personal adviser in the School. Students are able to choose from a wide range of modules offered by the School, cognate Schools within the College and other History Departments within the University (Group 1 or Group 2 modules as defined by the University of London School of History). The flexibility of the system enables students to design their own
Programme Title: BA (Hons) History

A coherent pathway of study in accordance with their developing intellectual interests. By the end of their second year, students will have been encouraged to have undertaken at least one historiographically reflective module such as History in Practice (level 4) or the Historiographical module [title to be confirmed] (level 5).

Year 3

Students take modules to the value of 120 credits with a minimum of 90 credits at level 6 in History. 60 credits must come from a Special Subject (either offered by the School or by another college within the University). The Special Subject requires extensive use of primary sources. Final year students are not permitted to take level 4 modules. All module choices are made with the guidance of the student’s personal adviser in the School.

NOTE: Changes to levels 5 and 6 involve modules that do not yet exist.

How Do We Listen and Act on Your Feedback?

The Staff-Student Liaison Committee provides a formal means of communication and discussion between Schools and its students. The committee consists of student representatives from each year in the school/institute together with appropriate representation from staff within the school/institute. It is designed to respond to the needs of students, as well as act as a forum for discussing programme and module developments. Staff-Student Liaison Committees meet regularly throughout the year.

The school operates a Learning and Teaching Committee, or equivalent, which advises the School/Institute Director of Taught Programmes on all matters relating to the delivery of taught programmes at school level including monitoring the application of relevant QM policies and reviewing all proposals for module and programme approval and amendment before submission to Taught Programmes Board. Student views are incorporated in this Committee’s work in a number of ways, such as through student membership, or consideration of student surveys.

The School operates an Annual Programme Review of their taught undergraduate and postgraduate provision. The process is normally organised at a School-level basis with the Head of School, or equivalent, responsible for the completion of the school’s Annual Programme Reviews. Schools/institutes are required to produce a separate Annual Programme Review for undergraduate programmes and for postgraduate taught programmes using the relevant Undergraduate or Postgraduate Annual Programme Review pro-forma. Students’ views are considered in this process through analysis of the NSS and module evaluations.

Academic Support

All students beginning to study on the programme participate in a series of Welcome Week activities, which involve introductions to the programme and specific inductions in the use of the online learning environment. These events also include opportunities for social interaction, and scheduled small group and individual meetings with personal advisers.

Each student’s academic progress and personal welfare is monitored by an adviser in each School with whom regular meetings are scheduled. Advisers are the designated members of staff with whom students can raise issues and problems and from whom they can seek advice and guidance.

All teaching staff hold regular office hours in which students are actively encouraged to discuss their work and their progress.

There is a dedicated Student Experience Manager in the School who works with academic staff to assist students in need of support.

Both the Student Experience Manager and all advisers are able to refer students, where appropriate to the relevant professional service departments in the College, including Disability and Dyslexia, Welfare, and Counselling.

A dedicated post of E-Learning Manager supports students in their use of online learning environments used on all modules.

The School of History collaborates with the College’s Thinking Writing team and Language Learning unit to support students in the development of their writing skills. Additional support is regularly provided by professional writers working in the College as Royal Literary Fund Fellows.

Programme-specific Rules and Facts
Specific Support for Disabled Students

Queen Mary has a central Disability and Dyslexia Service (DDS) that offers support for all students with disabilities, specific learning difficulties and mental health issues. The DDS supports all Queen Mary students: full-time, part-time, undergraduate, postgraduate, UK and international at all campuses and all sites.

Students can access advice, guidance and support in the following areas:
• Finding out if you have a specific learning difficulty like dyslexia
• Applying for funding through the Disabled Students’ Allowance (DSA)
• Arranging DSA assessments of need
• Special arrangements in examinations
• Accessing loaned equipment (e.g. digital recorders)
• Specialist one-to-one “study skills” tuition
• Ensuring access to course materials in alternative formats (e.g. Braille)
• Providing educational support workers (e.g. note-takers, readers, library assistants)
• Mentoring support for students with mental health issues and conditions on the autistic spectrum.

Links With Employers, Placement Opportunities and Transferable Skills

History has a reputation as a serious and respected discipline, which develops an understanding of the modern world and valuable research, analytical and communication skills, making history graduates very attractive to employers. Queen Mary History graduates often find employment in areas such as business, education, finance, government and the media. Others continue their studies at postgraduate level, or pursue more directly related careers as academic historians, librarians, archivists or history teachers. Graduates have found work for organisations as diverse as BP, BBC, Mansion House Consulting and Investec.

Graduates of the programme can expect to have developed:
communication skills, as students are challenged to express themselves in both speech and writing;
presentation skills, as students are asked to introduce seminars, make points clearly and effectively, maintain discussion, and field questions;
reading skills, using a range of approaches to tackle different kinds of texts;
analytical abilities, as students respond to a assess their underlying agendas and meanings;
writing abilities, through preparing a range of assignments (including reports, learning journals, and research essays);
research skills, locating, sifting and interpreting a range of sources (from printed books to electronic journals);
time management skills and the ability to work under pressure, as students organise and fulfill extensive reading commitments and written assessments;
team-working skills, as students participate with peers in seminars and group research presentations;
communication skills, as students are challenged to express themselves both in speech and writing;
presentations skills, as students are asked to introduce seminars, make points clearly and effectively, maintain discussion, and field questions;

Every year the School sees a number of students progress to take higher degrees, both at Queen Mary and elsewhere.
